Gardening Podcasts

If you have not had a chance to listen to gardening podcasts, you really are missing out on a great learning opportunity. A podcast is an audio or video program that has been converted to a digital file and can be downloaded via the Internet to your computer or portable media player. It is much like a radio show that can be listened to at your convenience. This article describes what services can be used to download podcasts, how to locate podcasts of interest, and how to listen to your selections.

Some of the advantages of podcasts are that:

- 1. you can be very selective in the topics you listen to, for example, you can listen to podcasts on vegetable gardening, growing tomatoes, permaculture, and beekeeping. You should be able to find podcasts on virtually any subject.
- 2. Podcasts can be both educational and entertaining.
- 3. They are portable and can be listened to on demand. You can download them to your computer, portable media player, iPhone, iPad and iPod.
- 4. After setting up system, downloading and listening to the podcasts is very simple.
- 5. Access to most podcasts is free.

Podcasts can be downloaded from various sites. Apple iTunes has assembled a huge repository of podcasts. To use iTunes, you need to set up an iTunes account and download the iTunes software on your computer. There is no charge for this. Instructions for setting up an iTunes accounts can be obtained from http://support.apple.com/kb/HT2731. To download the iTunes software to your PC or Mac computer, visit this site: http://www.apple.com/itunes/download/

If you prefer not to use iTunes, you can also access podcasts from Juice, Odeo, and Podnova.

To locate podcasts of interest using iTunes, double click on the iTunes icon on your desktop. Once iTunes opens, click on "iTunes Store" on the left-hand panel of the screen. In the search text box at the upper-right side of the screen, type in the topic you are interested in and then hit the return key. A list of applications, books, audio books, albums, and podcasts may appear on the screen. Scroll down to the podcast section. Scroll down the podcast episodes list and find a podcast of interest. To listen to the podcast, click on the podcast number on the left side of the list. To download this file to your computer, click on the button on the right side of the listed podcast. If the download is free, the word "FREE" will appear on the download button.

To view a list of the podcasts stored on your computer, click on "Podcasts" under Library on the left side of the iTunes screen. You can double click on an item on this list to listen to the podcast. If you enjoy the podcast and wish to subscribe to future episodes, click the "Subscribe" button adjacent to the podcast name or at the bottom left-side of the screen. You can unsubscribe to any podcast by clicking on the podcast entry and then clicking on the "Unsubscribe" button at the bottom left-side of the screen.

To see a list of podcast episodes, click on the triangle to the left of the podcast name. The ghosted items have not been downloaded to your computer, but can be downloaded by clicking the "GET" button.

A partial list of gardening podcasts on iTunes is shown below. The table lists the number of episodes available on iTunes and may give an indication of the more well known podcasts. Type the name of the podcast in the iTunes search text box and hit return to access the podcast and obtain more information on it. No attempt was made by the Master Gardeners to review and approve this information. Use care in using this gardening information.

Give podcasts a try. You may find they are a great way to learn more about gardening.
