

Interpretive Reading

(Public Speaking)

Speakers may read any published written work that is age appropriate and acceptable for use in a public school classroom. (Examples may include, but are not limited to: children's stories, poetry, essays, speeches, articles, excerpts from novels that stand alone, etc.) Political and religious advocacy is not appropriate.

In addition to introducing him/herself the speaker should demonstrate knowledge about the reading selection by describing the title, the author, the characters, the purpose or setting of the writing, and any other introductory information that might enhance the understanding of the piece by the audience. The reading should be completed with a short conclusion that will leave a vivid memory of the selection in the minds of the audience. The length of the introduction and conclusion should be proportionate to the length of the reading portion, but not exceed 5 minutes.

The speaker creates the characters and the setting through voice inflection and hand gestures. There is no stage or set, so the speaker helps the audience create a mental picture for the selection. The speaker is presenting the reading as at a story hour, not acting it out.

This format is limited to individual participants.

The speaker may sit or stand during the presentation.

This is not a memorized speech, but is a dramatic reading. The speaker should have the source material present during the reading and use it during the reading. The speaker may use either the original publication or a copy held in a portfolio.

No props such as title cards, costumes, note cards or materials other than the reading material should be used in the reading.

The reading portion of the presentation should be no longer than five minutes. While older speakers may have more complex readings with more characters or more complex ideas, the length of the reading material should not lengthen with the speaker's age. Five minutes should be adequate for the speaker to demonstrate his/her range of reading skills. Exceeding time guidelines does not result in disqualification.

Judges may ask questions in this format.
