Two Ornamental Grasses Invasive!

Posted: Fri, 14 Jan 2011 10:36:06 PST by pmelam@ucdavis.edu(Pamela M. Geisel)

Nassella tenuissima (Mexican Feather Grass) and Chilean Needle Grass (Nassella neesiana) are two ornamental grasses that have become invasive in California.

Two grasses have recently been discussed by PlantRight and other organizations with concerns about invasive ornamental grasses. Mexican Feather Grass (Nassella tenuissima) and Chilean Needle grass (Nassella neesiana) are two grasses in particular that have invasive tendencies.

Both are being phased out of production by the nursery industry and alternatives are suggested. A recent publication describes the potential extent of invasion of Chilean needle grass, Nassella neesiana (Cyperales:.....)

The screenshot shows the homepage of the University of California Volunteer Management System (VMS) Help site. The header includes the University of California logo, the text "University of California Volunteer Management System (VMS) Help", and navigation links for "SKIP TO CONTENT", "SITE MAP", and a search box. A sidebar on the left contains a menu with items like "Home", "What is the VMS?", "FAQ System on the VMS", "VMS Administration Documentation", and "California Master Gardener Program". The main content area features a "Home Page" title, a "Volunteer Management System Help" section with a welcome message and a link to "NEW! View the Master Gardener VMS FAQ tutorials!", and a "More Help" section with contact information for James Sigala, Program Representative for the UC Statewide Master Gardener Program. A central graphic promotes "UCCE Master Gardener Volunteer Management Training System: FAQ Training" with a link to "FAQ Tutorials". At the bottom, there is a text block and a small thumbnail image of the website interface.
