

The UC Small Farm Program and
UC Cooperative Extension in San Diego County present:

Food Safety for Farmers

Produce buyers (wholesale markets, distributors, restaurants, schools, grocery stores, etc.) are increasingly expecting their suppliers to have a formal, documented food safety program for their farms. This workshop will help farmers selling to these buyers, understand their food safety requirements and establish a documented food safety program.

Date: Monday - July 9, 2012

Time: 9 am to 12:00 noon (registration at 8:30 am)

Place: The San Diego County Farm Bureau
1670 East Valley Parkway, Escondido

Presented by: Ramiro Lobo, UCCE Farm Advisor and Jose Fernandez de Soto, UC Hansen
Agricultural Center Director

Workshop Topics:

- Various organisms and their potential for on-farm produce contamination
- Legal requirements for assuring food safety on the farm
- Procedures for developing a “Self Certification” document
- What it will take to pass a USDA Good Agricultural Practices audit

Registration: There is no fee to attend this workshop, but please register to help us plan for handouts and refreshments. You may register online at:
<http://ucanr.org/2012foodsafetyworkshop>

More information: Please contact Barbara Henderson or Ramiro Lobo at (760) 752-4724 for more information or for special accommodations.