

University of California Cooperative Extension Centennial Celebration

A Day of Science and Service AND FUN!

Friday, May 9, 2014

The University of California Cooperative Extension will host an open house to celebrate our 100th anniversary, and everyone is invited!

Help us celebrate 100 years of Cooperative Extension research, education, and public service programs.

Location:

Madera County Historical Museum
210 W. Yosemite Avenue, Madera CA 93637
(Click for map)

When:

Friday May 9, 2014
3:00 – 6:00 p.m.

Agenda Highlights

It's a Day of Science and Service! Be a scientist for the day and post your observations using smart phones and iPads!

Guests will also enjoy:

- Exhibits showcasing our agriculture, 4-H Youth Development, Master Gardener, and nutrition programs.
- Touring the Ag Exhibits at the Madera County Historical Museum.
- The opportunity to sign our anniversary card and enjoy some tasty refreshments.

Can't join us at Courthouse Park?

You can still be a scientist for the day! Answer three science-related questions by clicking this link: Day of Science and Service

For more information contact the Madera UCCE Office (559) 675-7879 or view the details on our webpage <http://cemadera.ucanr.edu>.