NATIVE POLLINATOR TALK

Did you know that we have over 700 species of bees in Southern California? Or that moths and bats are important pollinators?

Join us for a Native Pollinator Talk with UCCE Master Gardener, Sharon Reeve. Learn about the extensive number of native pollinators there are and the plants that attract them. This will be held both in person at the San Diego County Farm Bureau in Escondido and virtually for those that cannot attend in person.
