

Relationship of Cultivation or Cover Crop to Lesion Nematode Population -
G. S. Sibbett, D. E. Johnson

Nematode populations were monitored in an experiment comparing replicated fumigated and nonfumigated middles either cultivated, planted to legumes, (strawberry clover and prostrate alfalfa) or allowed to develop weeds. Soil samples taken the fall following planting showed no difference in lesion nematode population due to method of culture.