January 2015

University of California
Agriculture and Natural Resources

The California 4-H Association is committed to improving our professional skills and development, exchanging new program ideas, methods, and techniques, while getting to know 4-H Youth Development Program colleagues across the state.

Welcome

NEWS LETTER

Hello and Happy New Year! Welcome to the latest edition of the CA4-HA Newsletter. This is a great time to be a part of the California 4-H Association and we are excited to see where the new year takes us. We wrapped up our enrollment drive in December and we are pleased to share that as of our January board meeting, the association has 46 members. That's 11 new and 35 returning members! Planning continues for our 2015 retreat, so we hope everyone has set aside some program development funds in anticipation of this year's event. Afraid you might be running a little short on cash? Don't deny yourself this valuable opportunity—speak with your County Director about alternative funding sources or see if your local 4-H council will help cover the cost of travel and/or attendance. Registration will be available soon, so stay tuned and save the date below!

For 4-H Professionals: This Thing Called 4-H

I think every 4-H Agent, at one time or another, has asked themselves, “Why do I do this thing called 4 H?” When I was a Massachusetts 4-H Extension Agent back in the mid-1980’s, I was told the profession showing the highest divorce rate was my own – an Extension Agent. I believed it then and I bet it still is today. I know it would be true in my own home if my wife ever learned I wanted to be a County Agent again. That would be that!

Being a County 4-H Agent was the most stressful job I’ve ever tackled. While on the Maine State 4-H Staff I was once threatened with death but even that still didn’t hold a candle to what I had experienced as a County Agent. Why? What could possibly be so bad? Answer: Each day a 4-H Agent goes to work, he or she faces a series of decisions, each one directly affecting the lives of young people and adult volunteers – who should be on a state 4-H team? Did so and so get certified as a 4-H judge? Can we run the 4-H event on Saturday? The problem is not everyone agrees with each decision so no matter what you decide; someone always thinks you are wrong.

Some days were actually painful. On those days, on the worst of the worse, when more people disagreed with me than agreed, I had a little trick I used to make it all ok again. I’d remember one or two 4-Hers I knew and a specific moment each experienced as a 4-H member. That moment when the light turned on and you’d actually see it in their eyes. You knew they “got” it. Then, suddenly, all things became right.

When that glint appears, that is when you understand why you do this thing called 4-H.

BECOME A CALSAC TRAINER

CalSAC is currently accepting applications for the 2015 Trainer Network Training of Trainers (ToT) Institute! The CalSAC Trainer Network is a professional development and training project serving out-of-school time professionals across California. The goal of the Trainer Network is to build the training and facilitation skills of professionals in the field who, in turn, provide training to out-of-school time program staff, volunteers and administrators. CalSAC Trainers work in a variety of programs across the state, from rural to urban communities, school and community based programs, and serve the broad range of the child care and school-age field.

As a trainer you will:

- Receive a 3-day intensive training institute taking place in the Bay Area on March 19-21, 2015
- Complete an endorsement process with support from a CalSAC Mentor by December 2015
- Gain access to more than 60 different training modules
- Gain access to exclusive leadership and professional development opportunities
- Join a unique statewide community of professionals

Position Announcement

AREA 4-H YOUTH DEVELOPMENT ADVISOR, Headquartered in Kings County

Across California, the University of California's division of Agriculture and Natural Resources (UC ANR) is an engine for problem solving. Serving as the bridge between local issues and the power of UC research, our more than 300 campus-based specialists and county-based advisors work as teams to bring practical, unbiased, science-based answers to Californians.

We seek an academic advisor to conduct a county-based extension, education, and applied research program to build the capacity of youth and adults to ensure successful growth and quality of youth development programs in the three-county area of Kings, Tulare and Fresno, California.

We seek an advisor who is:

- An innovative researcher to develop an applied research program, evaluate programs, and report accomplishments, results, and potential or actual impacts to scientific and lay audiences;
- An educator to disseminate practical, science-based information to clientele, using extension methods that are responsive to needs and appropriate for the audience and situation;
- A collaborator to develop partnerships and leverage resources, collaborate with UC ANR program teams, specialists, advisors and others within the research/extension network, and deliver innovative approaches that will develop, strengthen, and expand the local delivery of statewide programs;
- A visionary to complement UC ANR's Strategic Vision, optimizing opportunities for conducting outstanding research and extension programs that meet the needs of Californians.

For information about UC ANR, the rich breadth of program scope and delivery, and how we are making a difference in California, candidates are invited to visit our Web site: ucanr.edu. UC ANR is a network of colleagues with a focus on research, education programs, and outreach to resolve local challenges in communities where they live and work.
