AN EVALUATION GUIDE FOR 4-H CLOTHING PROJECTS

CREATIVE SELECTION

Occasion:

Where do you plan to wear your garment? Will it be appropriate?

Style:

Is the style becoming to you? Is it appropriate for your age? Is the fabric suitable for the design of the garment?

Color:

Is the color becoming to you? Is it a color that looks well with other items you are wearing?

Texture:

Is the texture of the fabric (rough, shiny, fuzzy) suitable for you? Is it appropriate for the style and design of the garment and for the occasion for which you will wear it?

FIT

Is the garment well balanced so that the center front and center back form straight lines at the center front and center back of your figure? Are the shoulder seams the correct slant and length? Do the darts point to, but not beyond, the curved areas of your figure? Is the waistline of the garment located at your natural waistline or according to the design of the garment? Do the vertical seams form plumb lines? Is the hem line straight? Are the ease allowances adequate for comfort and appearance and for the design of the garment? (Check each of these points for bodice and skirt, or pants, where appropriate)

GROOMING

Are you as neat and clean as possible? Is your hair appropriately and becomingly styled? Are your hands and nails clean, and well cared for? Is your clothing (under and outer) clean, free of spots and odors, pressed, and in good repair?

POSTURE

Standing:

Do you stand tall with back straight, head up, and chin in? Do you keep your shoulders back, your chest up, abdomen in, and buttocks tucked under?

Poise:

Are you at ease? Do you avoid fidgeting with your hands and picking at your clothes or yourself? Do you wear your garment proudly and show it off to its best advantage?

ACCESSORIES

Number: Have you chosen a pleasing number of accessories - enough to complement your garment but not overpower it? (Shoes may be the only accessory you need)

Harmony: Does the color of your accessories complement your clothing? Is the color a pleasing value or intensity for you? Are the design and texture of your accessories in character with your garment and with each other? Are your accessories appropriate for your size?

CONSTRUCTION

Choice of Method:

Are the construction methods you used appropriate for the design of the garment, for the type of fabric, and for the type of wear you expect from the garment? For example, did you finish the seams in a way that will prevent raveling - will they wear well and not interfere with the design or general appearance of the garment? Did you select the type of buttonhole that will best complement the design and that is suitable for the fabric?

REMEMBER...IT IS THE OVERALL RESULT THAT IS MOST IMPORTANT, NOT THE METHOD USED

Grain line:

Did you cut your garment "on grain"? Some fabrics with wrinkle-resistant or stabilizing finishes can tolerate a small percentage of "off-grain" depending on their design and texture, but most fabrics, including knits, should be cut exactly on the grain to ensure the best possible hang and fit.

For designs with bias cuts, the fabric should be cut on true bias.

Workmanship:

How good a job did you do in making your garment? For example, are the stitch length and tension correct? Is the stitching straight and are the darts tapered, not blunt? Are the interfacing and facings neat and not bulky? Are the fasteners neat and secure? Is the collar neat - no undercollar rolling out or points poking up? Are the sleeves set in smoothly - evenly spaced with no puckering? If the garment is lined, is the lining placed so that it does not distort the outer fabric and overall line? Is the hem as inconspicuous as possible and durable enough for the kind of care it will receive?

PRESSING

Underpressing:

Did you press as you sewed? Did you press one seam before crossing it with another?

Top Pressing:

Did you do a good job of top pressing after completing your garment? Were you careful not to overpress, particularly on the right side of the fabric?

CARE

Consider how long you plan to wear the garment and for what occasions. Will the fabric or style require a minimum amount of time, effort, and cost to keep the garment clean, pressed, and in good repair?

WHAT ABOUT FOOD SAFETY?

Proper food handling is very important. Lack of sanitation, insufficient cooking and improper storage can allow bacteria in food to increase to dangerous levels. What can you do to make food safe?

You can protect your family and friends from food borne illness by:

1. Making sure your hands, dishes, utensils, kitchen equipment and work surfaces are clean.
2. Being careful and taking all precaution needed in storing, preparing and cooking of all foods.

Temperature and time influence the growth of bacteria. Keep hot foods HOT (above 140 F) and cold foods COLD (below 40 F). Food may not be safe to eat if held more than 2 hours at temperatures between 60 F and 120 F, the temperature zone where bacteria grow rapidly. Remember that this includes all the time during preparation, storage, and serving. Remember too, when transporting food, keep those food dishes that require refrigeration COLD and those that require heat HOT. It is suggested to wrap food items for traveling in a thick, clean towel or blanket and transport them in an ice chest.

HOW CAN I PARTICIPATE?

1. You must be enrolled in a 4-H Foods and Nutrition Project.
2. Entry forms must be returned with your recipe (excluding cake decorating) to: 4-H Office, Government Center, 891 Mountain Ranch Rd, San Andreas, CA 95249. You will need your Foods and Nutrition leader's signature on the entry form.
3. Do your own creative work on place setting and menu planning (excluding cake decorating). (See "Table Setting Notes" in this booklet).
4. Learn all you can about the favorite food you have chosen to present. Your favorite food presentation should be appropriate to your abilities and your years in the foods project. Your entry should be different each year.
5. Following the theme or title of your entry, plan a menu around your entry, using the knowledge you have learned about a balanced diet and the basic four food groups. Use your own creativity. Remember color and texture. Type or print your menu on a 5" X 8" card with your favorite food underlined. (See specific details in this booklet). Menu should include the basic "4" food groups. Consider color and texture in planning your menu.
6. Practice preparing your favorite food so that you can, from experience, tell others how to do it. Serve it to your family and friends and get their comments. Remember, "Practice Makes Perfect".
7. Learn as much as you can about the basic four food groups and how your menu meets these requirements.
8. Bring an ample supply of your Favorite Foods entry so that there will be enough to serve participants and guests.

Your food must be given careful attention so that it is properly handled. NO FOOD PREPARATION WILL BE ALLOWED AT THE EVENT. Be sure and bring all utensils you will need for serving. ONCE YOU ARRIVE...

6. Be ready to answer any questions the judge(s) may ask concerning the table setting, menu or preparations of the favorite food. Judges will probably discuss your favorite food, menu and table setting with you, but their questions or comments do not necessarily indicate that they are not pleased with your work or your answers. The Home Arts Expo is a learning experience.

2. You do not need to use your family's best china or silverware. Look through magazines to find ideas for using what you have available as a compliment to you favorite food.
3. Centerpieces are required. It should be small, low and in scale for your one place setting. POTTED PLANTS ARE NOT ALLOWED. Practice at home or at a project meeting so that you will be well prepared to set it up properly before the actual judging.
4. Be prepared to answer questions on your table setting, your menu and your favorite food entry.
5. Paper accessories may be used in your presentation. These are perfectly acceptable when they lend appeal to your theme, your chosen food entry and your menu.
