

Universities Fighting World Hunger Summit March 25-26, 2021

Call for Student Poster Presentations Due Date Extended to January 15, 2021

Universities Fighting World Hunger (UFWH) invites you to submit an abstract to present a poster at the annual Summit, which will be held virtually on March 25-26, 2021, hosted by the University of California (UC) Davis. The theme of the UFWH Summit 2021 is One Health. One Planet. emphasizing the interdependency between food, human health and planet health. More information about the Summit: <https://worldfoodcenter.ucdavis.edu/summit2021>

The goal of the UFWH Summit 2021 is to bring together current and future leaders to see a world without hunger while addressing the critical concerns of a changing climate. Students, administrators, faculty, staff, and community partners will learn from each other and share ideas that lead to actions at the global, national, community and campus levels. Students will engage with and learn from experts in a variety of fields related to hunger, public health, social justice, social enterprise, and sustainability of natural resources, agriculture, and food systems.

We invite students, faculty, staff, and community organizations to submit an abstract for a virtual poster presentation in one of these three tracks:

One Health. We seek posters that share initiatives and research to reduce the burden of hunger and improve population health outcomes at the global, national, community and campus levels. Topics can include root causes of hunger, homelessness, poverty, nutrition, and creative and innovative strategies and solutions.

One Planet. We seek posters that share initiatives and research to respond to the climate crisis, particularly as it relates to agricultural practices and changes to food systems that reduce impacts from climate change at the global, national, community and campus levels, emphasizing creative and innovative strategies and solutions.

Convergence. We seek posters that share initiatives and research demonstrating converging impacts by addressing intersections between human and planet health.

How to Submit a Poster Abstract for the UFWH Summit 2021

Enter the following information no later than January 15, 2021 into this online form:

<https://app.oxfordabstracts.com/stages/2277/submitter>

- a) Name and college/university of the primary presenter and contact email
- b) Name, credentials, email and college/university of a faculty sponsor (if applicable)
- c) Track selection (one of the following: One Health, One Planet, Convergence)
- d) Level (one of the following: global, national (U.S. or another nation), state, community, campus)
- e) Topic (select all that apply): hunger, nutrition, homelessness, poverty, economic development, social justice, health equity, social enterprise, natural resources, agriculture/food production, food processing, food distribution, food waste, climate solutions
- f) Presentation title (maximum of 15 words)

Use these structured headings: introduction (why is this topic important?), purpose (what gap in knowledge are you addressing?), methods (what did you do?), results (what did you find or learn?), discussion/implications (what does your work mean to others? what is your call to action?). Include the contribution your poster makes to the knowledge base of UFWH Summit attendees.
- h) Bio of the poster presenter. No more than 100 words.

How Posters will be Selected

All poster abstracts will be reviewed by a committee of UC faculty and students, scored and accepted based on meeting the following criteria:

- Relevance to Summit themes
- Scientific or program merit and clarity
- Innovation and call to action

Requirements

If your poster is accepted, you will be required to:

- 1) Register to attend (virtually) the Summit. Note that there is not a fee for attendance, but we require registration so that you can participate and access all of the Summit resources and events.
- 2) Submit a 1 minute video-recording of you describing your poster. See more information about format of accepted posters on the next page.
- 3) Attend practice training session and an interactive 30-minute poster session where you will engage with other Summit attendees to discuss your poster and answer questions. There will be one 30-minute session on each day of the Summit. You will be notified of your poster date and time when your poster is accepted.

Key Dates

Poster submissions will be accepted up to January 15, 2021, reviewed and scored, and acceptance notifications sent at the end of January.
