

UC Environmental Stewards Collaboration Agreement

(Template Version: June 2023)

AGREEMENT

between

The Regents of the University of California and

[Cooperator]

for

The University of California Environmental Stewards

This Agreement is entered into by and between the [Cooperator] (“Cooperator,” Cooperating agency,” or “Cooperating Organization”) and The Regents of the University of California (“UC”), Agriculture and Natural Resources (“ANR”), Cooperative Extension (“UCCE”) Environmental Stewards (collectively, “University”), a UCCE Approved Training Program.

I. PURPOSE OF AGREEMENT

The purpose of this Agreement is to clarify the roles of the University and of the Cooperator, who have agreed to collaborate in the delivery of the UC Environmental Stewards, which includes either the California Naturalist Course, the Climate Stewards Course or both.

II. MISSION OF THE UC ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDS

- A. The UC Environmental Stewards is a UCCE-approved educational program designed to teach and extend information on natural history, environmental science, and natural resource issues in California. The mission of the UC Environmental Stewards is to foster a diverse community of naturalists and promote stewardship of California's natural resources through education and service.
- B. The University is the entity responsible for the UC Environmental Stewards in its entirety, including the periodic review and revision of the UC Environmental Stewards’ course curricula.

III. STRUCTURE AND IMPLEMENTATION OF THE UC ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDS

A. The University's Role and Responsibility

1. Provision of Instructor Training

- a. In furtherance of its mission, the UC Environmental Stewards conducts Instructor Training Workshops for selected members of Cooperating agencies wishing to join with UC in this endeavor.
 - i. Given the level of commitment associated with the UC Environmental Stewards, the University strongly prefers that Instructors be employees of Cooperating agencies. If a Cooperating organization proposes that a volunteer take an Instructor Training Workshop, the University will evaluate that request as part of its review of the individual's Application for Instructor Training.
- b. After successfully completing a UC Environmental Stewards Instructor Training Workshop and approval of the Instructor application, Cooperating organization employees become UC Environmental Stewards Instructors of Record for that specific course.

2. Provision of Curricula

a. Instructor Training Curriculum

The UC Environmental Stewards has designed the Instructor Training Workshop for employees of Cooperating agencies that place a priority on science-based environmental education. Such employees will have extensive (five or more years) work experience and/or a Master's (or higher) degree in natural resources management, environmental science, biology, ecology, physical or biogeography, or a related field. In addition to the scientific and programmatic content, the Instructor Workshop provides complete information on all aspects of administering a specific UC Environmental Stewards course.

b. UC California Naturalist Training Curriculum

The UC Environmental Stewards has designed the California Naturalist curriculum to introduce Californians to the wonders of our unique ecology and engage them in the stewardship and study of California's natural communities. Similarly, it has designed the Climate Stewards course curriculum to introduce Californians to the causes, consequences, and approaches to communicating about climate change and opportunities to engage in building more resilient communities and ecosystems. It uses a science-based program of study including hands-on learning, problem-solving, and community service to instill a deep appreciation for the natural communities of the state and to inspire individuals to become stewards of their local resources. UC Environmental Stewards courses include content from the physical sciences such as geology and water resources as well as ecology, plant and animal communities, ecosystem management, and current pressing environmental issues; and provides tools for collaborative conservation and effective communication.

- c. The University will periodically update the curricula of its courses as needed based on the results of new research and other relevant developments in the natural sciences.

3. Ongoing Program Support

Approved UC Environmental Stewards Instructors of Record representing and affiliated with Cooperating organizations receive ongoing programmatic support from the University. Such support includes but is not limited to: supplementary curriculum materials, an interactive website, regularly scheduled meetings with other Cooperating agencies, annual convenings, evaluation instruments, a volunteer management system, and a coordinating University staff member who is available by phone or email for guidance.

B. The Cooperator Organization's Role and Responsibility

1. Provision of Training for UC Environmental Stewards

- a. Cooperating agencies engage their employees that are Approved Instructors of Record in conducting the UC Environmental Stewards courses for which they have completed Instructor Training Workshops.
 - i. The curriculum for training California Naturalists requires completion of forty (40) hours to include the entire content covered in CA Naturalist Handbook and course components described in the Instructors Training Manual as well as local natural history information developed or adopted by the Cooperating organization. The curriculum for training Climate Stewards requires completion of forty (40) hours to include the entire content covered in the CA

Climate Stewards Handbook and course components described in the Instructors Training Manual as well as local climate education information developed or adopted by the Cooperating organization.

- ii. Failure to offer a class at least one (1) time every three years may result in termination of this Agreement as further described below in Item VII.C., Termination.
- b. Cooperating agencies must verify that Naturalists/Stewards-in-training have successfully completed the curriculum prior to submitting their information for certification by the UC California Naturalists Program.
 - i. The UC Environmental Stewards Program strongly recommends (but does not require) that Cooperating agencies encourage Certified UC California Naturalists and Climate Stewards to commit to a minimum of forty (40) hours of volunteer service per year in environmental stewardship, education, citizen science, or program support.

IV. ADDITIONAL TERMS OF AGREEMENT

In such situations the Cooperating organization should communicate their interest for a reduction using the initial or billing roster due at the end of the first week of the course. It is the general policy of the UC Environmental Stewards, however, that the Cooperating organizations charge at least a nominal class fee to ensure the trainee's personal investment and commitment to completion of the class.
