

Helpful Sites

for Educators & Parents

preppers.org/bottle-tower-garden

Watch a video all about the tower garden shown today. Great idea for small areas on a patio or in a yard.

KidActivities.net/category/theme-gardening

"1000's of Ideas for Childcare Professionals & Teachers"

Great ideas and recipes for garden projects for kids of all ages!

KidGardening.org

This site has not only garden activities & garden basics, but lesson plans for different age groups, grant-writing tips, education resources and more.

eartheasy.com/grow\_gardening\_children.htm

Tips to garden with children. A list of veggies rated for success in the garden. And much more.

extension.unh.edu/Community-Gardens/Gardening-Children

University of New Hampshire Cooperative Extension site has a section, "Gardening with Children", with a thoughtful approach to the subject. (Be aware that some info on this site is based on New England data.)

ucanr.edu/sites/UC Master Gardeners

No fun ideas for children here but this site has lots of science-based info on all areas of gardening---Tulare & Kings Master Gardeners---specific to the San Joaquin Valley.

There are many more sites available with fun, exciting projects & thoughts to instill a love for the garden if you look.

Dirt: The Scoop on Soil by Natalie M. Rosinsky (Amazing Science). We'd like to thank Picture Window Books for graciously allowing us to reproduce portions of this book for our presentation. This book is available at (among others):

Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com, Capstonepub.com, Goodreads.com in book form.

The Herb Garden Club: A Collection of Herbal Stories and Activities for Children of All Ages by Kathy Stevens (Amazon.com). The author is a retired teacher, a Certified Herbalist AND a Master Gardener of Tulare & Kings Counties with a passion for herbs. This is her second book.