

GARDENING FOR BEGINNERS

Is this the year you're really going to start a garden? Did you start a garden last year and wonder why things didn't go as well as you hoped? Gardening for Beginners can be the answer you're seeking. Gardens can thrive when science-based practices are used.

Would you like to learn more about these research-based horticultural practices? Sign up for this course taught by the University of California trained Master Gardeners. Whether you have a big or small garden, patio, or deck... you'll find value in this class!
