

Announcing New Traveler Assistance Mobile APP

The University of California is providing access to a free mobile phone app that allows faculty, students, and staff to access global security intelligence when traveling. iJET's Worldcue® Mobile TRAVELER app is designed to instantly deliver critical information and support to UC's travelers so they can be more aware of their environment, and take necessary precautions and actions to mitigate risk. Whether it's attending a conference in London, conducting field research in Cairo, or studying in Tokyo, unfamiliar and disruptive situations can occur to anyone at anytime, anywhere. The best way to keep UC travelers safe and productive is to provide location specific travel information and real time updates as events unfold. In times of crisis, at-risk travelers need a rapid and effortless solution to contact the appropriate in-country emergency services, UC risk managers, and travel assistance providers. The Worldcue® Mobile TRAVELER app can do just that!

Two of the most valuable features of the app, located on the home screen, are the Hotline quick-connect button and the country-specific, emergency numbers list. With a single tap, Worldcue® Mobile TRAVELER connects a traveler to UC's 24x7 Global Hotline for assistance. The hotline quick-connect button eliminates the "who do I call" dilemma when a need for assistance occurs.

In the event of an emergency, having in-country, emergency response numbers at hand can save lives. Most travelers are not aware of the local equivalent to "911" of the countries they are visiting, yet the app will conveniently provide this information. The Worldcue® Mobile TRAVELER app will recognize through geolocation which country you are in and with two clicks of a button, you will reach local emergency services for immediate assistance. iJET's Worldcue® Mobile TRAVELER app and UC's Global Hotline allows UC employees and students to better prepare for and respond to the risks that can accompany travel. More information regarding the app will be provided to travelers in the customized Welcome email when they book a trip through Connexus or UCtrips website.
