

AG LABOR MANAGEMENT EDUCATION PROGRAM

The University of California Cooperative Extension, San Diego County's Farm Labor Management Training Program, a two-tiered program offering educational seminars and training workshops to help agricultural employers, human resource managers and labor supervisors to better understand and mitigate labor related risks impacting agricultural businesses. Our ag employer seminars include leading industry experts who will provide updates and train participants on ag labor laws and regulations; how to develop better ag supervisors; and challenges and strategies to manage the H2A visa program effectively.
