

Vine Mealybug Males on Traps

The males of vine mealybug are very small, approximately 2 mm (1/12 of an inch) in length. Magnification will be required to identify the males.

Vine mealybugs as they actually appear on a sticky trap.

Close-up of males, note the wing and the setae that appears as a faint hair-like structure.

Vine mealybug female and male

For more information contact:

Larry Bettiga
University of California Cooperative Extension
Monterey County
831-759-7350

Photo Credit: Jack Kelly Clark
University of California
Communication Services